Pick W. R. Donham for State Court in Butler's Place

Native of Drew County Becomes Arkansas Associate Justice

VETERAN ATTORNEY Governor's Appointment Takes Political Circles by Surprise

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—W. R. Donham, 62, of Little Rock, took the oath of office as Associate Justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court Thursday.

He was named to succeed the late Turner Butler, Justice Donham was sworn in by Associate Justice T. M. Mehaffy. He will sit with the court for the first time Monday.

The ceremony was brief. There were no speeches.

Donham Appointed
LITTLE ROCK—W. R. Donham of Little Rock, 62, lawyer for the Arkansas Baptist Convention and president of the Board of Trustees of Baptist State hospital, Little Rock, was designated associate justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court by Governor Bailey Wednesday to succeed the late Justice Turner Butler.

Judge Donham said he would seek election to the court "if his services are satisfactory."

He said he would go to the capital Thursday morning and get his commission, and be sworn in as associate justice. He said that because of long friendship with Associate Justice T. M. Mehaffy, he would ask the justice to administer the oath.

Appointment Surprise
Siney M. Donham was never mentioned publicly in connection with the court vacancy, his appointment came as a surprise to many. He told a reporter that he at no time had been a candidate, but in response to questioning by friends, he had indicated he "would be glad to accept the appointment, if tendered."

That was last Thursday, he said, and "since then the matter has been entirely in the hands of my friends and I have had nothing to do with it."

Governor Bailey notified him of the appointment in a letter Wednesday, he said. Governor Bailey made the public announcement at his Hot Springs hotel room—where he is confined to bed with a severe case of tonsillitis.

In the governor's room at the time of the announcement were Judge Donham, his two nephews, Prosecuting Attorney Fred A. Donham and Henry Donham, lawyer, both of Little Rock and Raymond Hebsamen, Little Rock business man and chairman of the State Bar Association.

Mr. Donham will serve until the next general election, which will be held in November. The justice elected at that time will serve until January 1, 1941. Another election for a regular eight-year term will be held in 1940.

Native of Drew County
Mr. Donham was born September 14, 1875, about 14 miles from Monticello, in Bear-house township, Drew county, the son of William C. and Mollie J. Donham. He was educated in public schools, the University of Arkansas Law Department, Little Rock and Missouri Law College, St. Louis, and was married November 18, 1897, to Miss Ruth Smith, of Saline county, about 10 miles east of Benton. Judge was raised and educated in Saline county, where his family moved in 1885. After being admitted to the bar in September, 1902, Mr. Donham moved to Benton in February, 1903, and began the practice of law there.

While there he served as Saline county and probate judge from 1910-14, and was named delegate to the constitutional convention of 1918, but did not serve because he moved to Little Rock, to live at his present address, January 1, 1918.

New Air Offense Formed in China

Soviet Planes Seen as Great Help in War Against Japan

By the Associated Press
China found a new courage in her fight against the Japanese conquest Thursday in exploits of a re-organized air force, guerrilla warfare of her communist troops and of irregulars.

Officials at Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, felt that with aid of Soviet-made planes China gradually would gain the upper hand over Japanese aviation.

The Chinese Central News Agency announced that the Japanese had lost more than 20 planes Wednesday in Chinese bombardments of Nanking and Wuhu.

In Spain, the Spanish government army pushed into southern Zaragoza province in an effort to wrest Villanueva del Huerva from the insurgents just as it did Teruel last month in its first major offensive success.

Bailey Confirms Extra Session Idea

Finance Board to Meet Monday on Question of Toll Bridges

LITTLE ROCK—Governor Bailey at Hot Springs confirmed reports Wednesday night that he will call a special session of the legislature if the Board of Finance, which he has called to meet Monday, approves highway bond refinancing plans necessitating new legislation.

Details of the new refinancing plan for $145,000,000 highway bonded indebtedness have been prepared by Chicago and St. Louis investment houses and will be submitted to the board Monday, probably with the recommendation of the governor, chairman of the board, that they be adopted.

With tonsillitis in a hotel suite at Hot Springs, where he was stricken Tuesday while attending a conference of governors of oil-producing states, Governor Bailey did not expand on the possibilities of a special session.

Facsimile Newspapers, Radioed Right Into Homes, Are Now Nearing Reality

Few Difficulties, However, Remain to Be Worked Out

"Newspaper" Delivered Into Your Home While You Sleep

APPLY FOR LICENSE Facsimile Broadcasting Is Only a Question of Time

By NEA Service
NEW YORK—Radio broadcast newspapers, riding the other waves directly into homes, offices and public places, have passed from the realm of fancy into near-reality.

Wireless transmission of facsimile reproductions of material used in newspapers, complete with headline news, photographs, cartoons, advertisements and other features, is an accomplished fact.

That it will be possible soon to install comparatively inexpensive apparatus in homes to receive the facsimile transmissions appears certain. It is merely a question of time, according to prominent radio technicians.

Hundreds of successful experimental broadcasts have been made by stations seeking to eliminate the technical "bugs" which are all that stand in the way of commercial facsimile broadcasts.

"Paper" Delivered While You Sleep
Here, according to radio engineers, is what may be expected as soon as the technical difficulties are removed:

Householders will be able to purchase facsimile receiving sets which will work while they sleep, making available at the breakfast table a complete newspaper of perhaps 33 pages of approximately letter-head size.

Contents of the newspaper would be limited only by the wishes of the broadcasting company, for facsimile transmission as now perfected is able to reproduce accurately any material which now can be printed on paper through existing methods.

The Federal Communications Commission has granted five experimental licenses and nine similar licenses to existing broadcasting stations which desire to transmit facsimile during hours not used for regular broadcasts. Two other experimental license applications are pending.

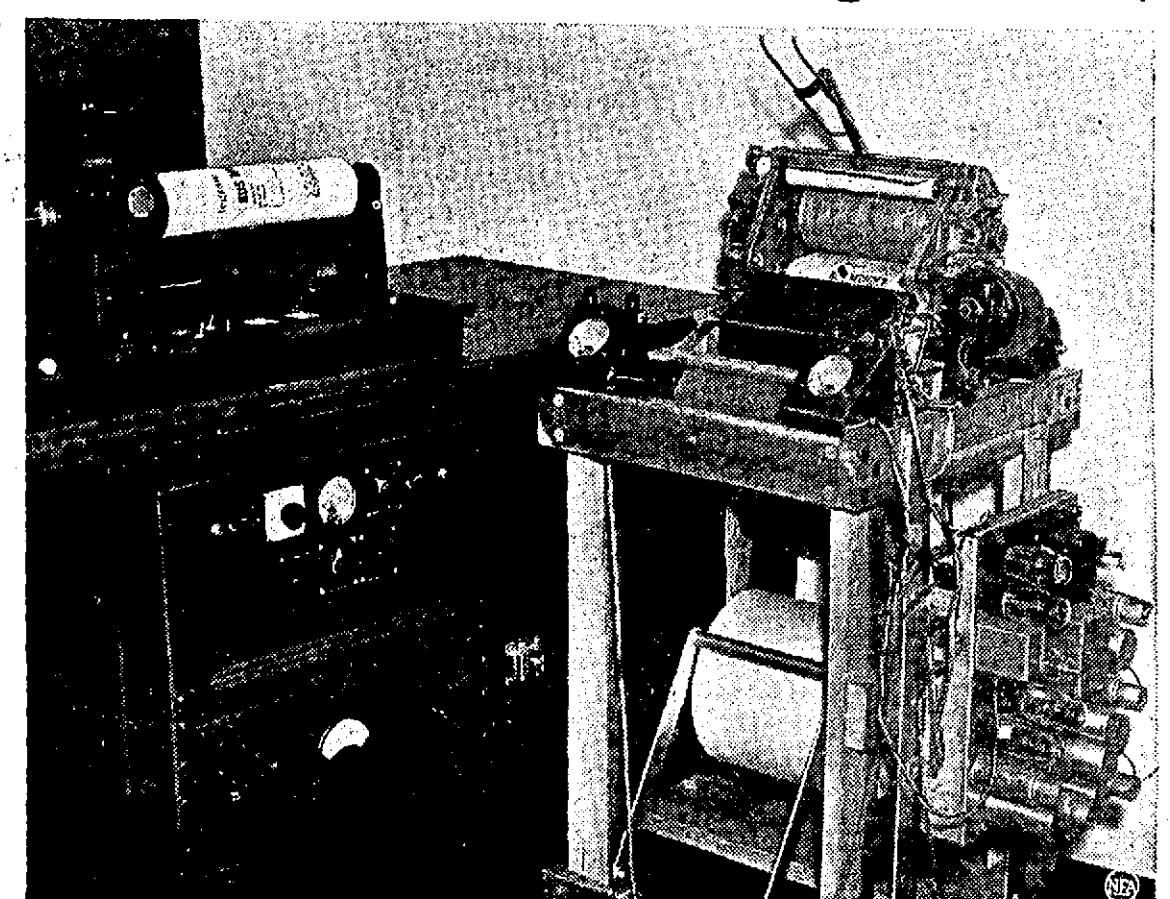

Facsimile broadcasting, as such, is not new. It has been used for a number of years for transmission of news bulletins and weather maps to ships at sea, and for sending reproductions of letters, documents, machine drawings, production schedules and even fashion sketches.

The new aspect of facsimile transmission is the virtual certainty that it soon will be available for use in homes, making it available for the first time to all of the people.

Standardization of Method Sought
There are, at present, at least six different methods of facsimile transmission, each operating on a slightly different principle. This, the industry concedes, is one of the hurdles which must be cleared before commercial facsimile transmission can become of widespread value.

As presently constituted, a set designed to receive facsimile transmission of one type could not receive material broadcast by a station using another method. The Radio Manufacturers Association, however, is working on a plan to standardize facsimile transmission systems, so that home equipment will be able to receive material from any station, just as is now possible with regular radio broadcasting.

All of the systems employ an apparatus at the sending end which "scans" the material to be transmitted, registering lights and shadows alternatively as the scanning equipment moves across the sheet.

This is the equipment used in the carbon paper method of facsimile broadcasting. At left is the transmitting apparatus or "scanner" which operates much like telephone machines. At right is an experimental receiving set without cabinet. Below is a section of a newspaper page received on the apparatus at right, affording an idea of how it would look if received in the home.

3 Supreme Court Judges May Quit

Cardozo, Brandies and McReynolds Considering Retirement

WASHINGTON—(P)—Reports circulated Wednesday that Supreme Court Justices Cardozo, Brandies and McReynolds are considering retirement. One authority, usually well-informed, said that Cardozo had told President Roosevelt he thought ill-health necessitated his retirement.

Mr. Roosevelt was said to have suggested that justice wait until he recovered from his present illness before making up his mind. Cardozo has been ill for several weeks.

Neither Brandies nor McReynolds made any public comment on reports they had agreed to retire simultaneously at some indefinite date.

Some congressional friends of Cardozo have talked of special legislation to give him full retirement benefits if he wishes to leave the bench. Under present law, Supreme Court justices may retire at 70 after 10 years service, and receive full pay of $20,000 a year. Cardozo, who is 67, has served since 1932.

The date for the preliminary contest will be about April 8.

The Junior and Senior Literary and Track events for District No. 10 of the Arkansas Athletic and Inter-School Association will be held in Texarkana on April 22 and 23. Senior Boys' Basketball Tournament will be held at Lewisville on February 25 and 26. The Junior Boys' Basketball Tournament will be held at Magnolia on February 19.

Lower Tax Sought for Gas and Oil

Average Motorist Earns $30 a Week, Local Dealers Are Told

Members of the Hempstead County Oil Dealer's association met at Capital hotel Wednesday night, elected new officers and outlined a program for 1938 in which they sought lower taxation on gasoline and motor oil.

Frank Johnson of Hope was re-elected general chairman, with Charles Harrell as secretary. Sid Bundy was named chairman of the Public Relations committee; S. L. Murphy, legislative committee; and C. V. Nunn, local affairs committee.

Talks were made by Frank Johnson, Representative John P. Vesey, Charles Harrell, C. D. Green of Emmet, Joe Coleman, P. S. Hurne, and W. F. Scarborough, of Little Rock, secretary of the Oil Dealer's association of Arkansas.

The meeting was attended by 32 members of the local association. The organization, which has affiliated county committees throughout the state, has adopted a program of objectives looking to reasonable taxation and wise expenditure of public funds, Secretary Harrell said, and plans to cooperate with other organizations to these ends.

"Our organization will continue in 1938 the efforts, begun in 1937, to aid in working out policies of reasonable taxation for motorist taxpayers of Arkansas," he explained. "Our studies clearly have shown that while there is a general tendency to impose special additional taxes upon these people, just as if they were wealthy citizens, the vast majority of them have extremely limited financial ability to pay."

"We are finding that the greater number of motorists in Arkansas have incomes no higher than $30 a week, have purchased low-priced used cars which are utilized largely in commuting a living, and find it difficult to pay excessive motor taxes on top of other taxes. Our chief objective is to make these taxes fair and reasonable to all."

During 1937 the State Revenue Department collected $23,000,000 from 30 special taxes. Of this amount, Arkansas motorists paid $15,000,000, or 63 per cent of the total.

Snow Reported at Little Rock; New River Prediction

Ouachita to Hit 41 Feet at Camden Is New Forecast

RED RIVER AT 32.3 May Suspend Traffic on Fulton and McNab Highway

By the Associated Press
Chilling winds extended Thursday the cold wave which spread sub-normal temperatures as far south as central Florida.

A shift in the wind relieved the pressure of an ice jam against "Honey-moon Bridge" at Niagara Falls, and saved the span from immediate destruction.

There were snow flurries at Little Rock. The Little Rock weather bureau revised its flood predictions in the Ouachita area, forecasting a stage of 41 feet at Camden by Saturday.

Road conditions continued to improve with traffic restored on several roads previously closed.

Red Continues Rise
Back waters from swollen Red river spread over the Fulton-McNab highway Thursday and threatened to halt traffic on that road.

The water was nearly a foot deep for a stretch of 40 yards, and was eight inches deep in another stretch of 25 yards. It was predicted that traffic would be suspended by nightfall.

The river rose more than a foot on the Fulton bridge gauge during the past 24 hours. At 7 a. m. Thursday the reading was 32.3 feet.

Early in the week the government issued a forecast of 34 feet at Fulton before the stream reached its crest. River observers said they believed the stream would reach its peak within the next 24 to 36 hours as a report came through that the river was falling slightly at Index, above Fulton.

The levee three miles south of Fulton, reported in a weakened condition Wednesday, was holding Thursday.

Highway Report
Charles O. Thomas, district highway engineer, issued a new report on the condition of highways in southwest Arkansas. The report:

No. 52—Wheeler Springs to junction of 24—closed.
No. 29—South of Lewisville, open.
No. 71—Texarkana to Ashdown, open.
No. 24—Blevins to McCaskill, closed.
No. 70—DeQueen to Cosatot river, closed.
No. 41—Horatio to Foreman, closed.

Appropriation to Pay Off '33 Pool

Payments to Certificate-Holders to Be About $1 a Bale

WASHINGTON—(P)—Chairman Smith (Dem., S. C.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said Wednesday the farm bill conferees had agreed to farm program to 3 per cent of sums available. He reported agreement on a provision to pay $1,800,000 to participants in a 1933 government cotton pool.

Members of the joint congressional committee which is trying to reconcile differences in the farm bills passed by the house and senate said they were in agreement on all major provisions. Chairman Jones (Dem., Tex.) of the House Agriculture Committee said a conference report probably would be ready next week.

Smith said the $1,800,000 cotton pool payment would come from "profits made by the government pool" which had been liquidated. He said the payments amounted to about $1 a bale and would go to certificate-holders, except that if these had been sold the buyer would get only his purchase price.

Secretary Wallace has criticized the pool payments on the ground that speculators had acquired some of them. Smith said the added provision eliminated this claim.

Science Describes a Design for Living

THE role of science in the evolution of mankind is a question on which even scientists disagree.

Some contend that sciences such as psychiatry will some day be able to control our minds and shape our ends. Others disagree. Certainly there is no unanimity of opinion on whether it would be wise for the human race to submit wholly to the ministrations of science.

Few, on the other hand, will disagree with the contention of scientists that objective reasoning and logical thinking must dominate such emotions as hate, and fear, and rage, if civilization is to continue functioning.

ONE of the chief contributions of science to the evolution of human thinking has been its ability to reduce generalities and half-truths to concrete statements of fact which will stand up under the light of reasoning.

Thus Dr. Ralph Gerard, professor of physiology at the University of Chicago, comes forward with what he terms three "earmarks" for the identification of "intelligent behavior."

The first earmark, says Dr. Gerard, is "the absence of superstition; the emancipation from fear of nature and the here-and-now prejudices of the group."

Second, the scientist contends, intelligent behavior must be marked by "tolerance" in which "the new is neither fatuously accepted nor blindly damned" and in which decisions are reached "after due instruction in and evaluation of the facts, pro and con."

"Third," says Dr. Gerard, "intelligent behavior does not confuse the symbol with the thing. Words themselves are classes and stand only as symbols which are imperfect and shifting representations of that for which they stand. Even facts are abstractions and, like words, may lead via the machinery of the most impenetrable logic to bizarre conclusions."

Dr. Gerard contends that "pure science" is the only hope for the future of civilization. He believes that it would be unwise to eliminate the selfish elements of self-preservation from man's makeup, but that it is "surely desirable to control and guide them."

Pay-As-You-Go

WHILE most cities struggle under a terrific burden of interest costs, and the U. S. Conference of Mayors makes repeated pleas for more federal relief aid, it is interesting to study the record of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Twenty years ago this city of about 50,000 population had bonded indebtedness of more than $500,000. Approximately 23 per cent of the municipal budget was used annually for bonds and interest payments.

Now Kalamazoo is entirely free of debt, despite the fact that it had to float $273,000 in relief bonds during the depression. Meanwhile, it has built a new $500,000 city hall, a 300-acre airport and two municipal golf courses—all paid for.

This financing feat happens to have been accomplished through the commission-manager form of government, but that is neither here nor there. The important thing is that the record proves that it is possible to operate municipal finances on a pay-as-you-go base if business methods are substituted for the fuddled efforts of professional politicians.

Authentic Medical Records Reveal Girl Mothers as Young as Six Years

(No. 134)

The announcement that a child, 12 years old, had given birth to a baby has aroused considerable interest throughout the country. There are, however, cases on record which indicate that it is possible for young girls to become mothers at exceedingly early ages.

There is one authentic report in medical literature of a girl in Ukraine, 6 years of age, who was precociously developed and who gave birth to a baby although the child did not live.

There is also an authentic record of a Mohammedan girl, 7 years old, in London, who gave birth in 1932 to a living child weighing four pounds and three ounces. So far as anyone knew, she had never developed the changes which indicate that a girl has passed from childhood to womanhood.

Her age was, however, absolutely verified. Beyond suffering from fright for the first three days, she made a perfect recovery, was able to nurse her baby and continued to do for nine months. The baby developed quite normally.

There are also records of a child, 8 years and 10 months old, who gave birth to a baby weighing eight pounds. And there are a considerable number of records of girls 10, 11 and 12 years of age who gave birth to infants. In fact, there is one record of a girl, 13 years and 8 months old, who gave birth to twins.

A recent case, authentically reported in Journal of the American Medical Association in 1927 was that a girl, aged 11 years and 10 months and 22 days, who gave birth to a child weighing 6 1/2 pounds. In this case the father was a boy aged 18.

Much has been written as to the age at which a boy may become the father of a baby. Although sexual maturity has been reported in boys 12 years of age, in the vast majority of cases a boy must be at least 13 and probably 14 years of age before this possibility exists.

Indeed, in the majority of boys the development of glandular activity capable of reproduction does not develop until the fifteenth or sixteenth year.

Accomplishment Despite Criticism Makes Heroes

With February the next step on the line, we begin to think of patriotism and our national heroes. What did Washington stand for, and Lincoln, and those others whose names have been carved in stone? Why were these leaders chosen as landmarks of history, and as examples for our children, when other great and good men have to be searched for in volumes hidden away on shelves?

Was it courage? Both of them had that. Was it an implacable sense of where their duty lay? Other men have had that, too. Others have been confronted with crisis as great as Washington and Lincoln lived through. We might suspect that the vagrancies of strange fortune have kept the laurels green and named half the streets in America for them today. The farm boy makes good? No, Washington was an aristocrat. Besides, here and elsewhere, men have risen to great heights from limbo, only to be forgotten after a few generations.

I asked the president of a college recently what he considered the real answer to such a place in the people's hearts and minds. Were we responsible? Were the emotions of people more easily reached through war than any other less obvious crisis?

He thought not. He named great leaders who had done the impossible in war, yet had been given second place by historians after the smoke had cleared away.

"We have to separate our 'concepts' of greatness from the impersonalities of history," he said, "as historians con-

RODNEY BRANDON—Connie's fiancé.
KATIE BLYN—Connie's "double."

Yesterday, Bret breaks up Connie's anniversary party and she knows that they can never be quite the same again.

CHAPTER XX
BRET and Connie did not have their talk on that tomorrow. Bret apologized again for the scene he had created at their anniversary party; he said that he had had too many whiskies and sodas, but that he would not use that for an excuse. He supposed it was the outburst of an accumulation of the past months. He hoped Connie would forgive him. Connie said that she would, in a polite, constrained tone of voice that showed plainly that she had not. She maintained this cool courtesy between them for more than a week, keeping Bret at a distance, as though he were a perfect stranger, or a bad little boy who must learn obedience. He was completely miserable.

"We've decided to charter my yacht," said a trip—perhaps Bermuda—make up a party," Connie said, at the end of that week. "Do you think you'd care to come along, Bret?"

"If you want me," he answered: did this mean that now she had decided to forgive and forget? "You know I want to be where you are. Who, may I ask, do you include in 'we'?"

"Oh, Rodney, Veronica, a half dozen or so. Her reply came carelessly. If she was glad he was going, she did not let him see it. "Everyone's leaving town now that it's spring; it will be deadly dull here. The Easter lilies are gorgeous in Bermuda, whole fields of them. The weather ideal, the crowd smart and amusing. I think you'll enjoy it, Bret."

"It will be nice to see the first signs of spring," he muttered. "Lord knows there's none in this man-made city. Not a blade of green grass, or a leaf, or flower." His thoughts winged back to his own country, the dark hills that would be coming alive with that tender young green haze, the sky that would be so blue and unclouded, the air so crisp and fragrant. An almost unbearable nostalgia seized him.

"See here," he turned to her once more, dropping all restraint, his dark eyes warm and eager. "Why don't we go back home, alone—just we two, during? The hills will be beautiful now—you remember last spring in the valley! We could have another honeymoon, take our long tramps, climb our own hill, come 'alive' again, too—as we'll never do anywhere else, among a lot of people. Wouldn't you like that better, honey? Wouldn't you be willing to go back with me?"

There was no answering warmth in his wife's eyes. She drew herself up, threw back her head. "I'm sorry, Bret," her voice was polite, unsufferably cool once more, "that you don't like my friends. Or the plans we've made. Go back to that sleepy little old town, buried in the hills. . . . I'll be bored to death. I'd die."

She might have read his thoughts, for a slow flush colored her lovely face, her eyes flashed now in anger. "I know what you're thinking. You might as well have said it. That I liked that little town, your hills and country, well enough last year. But I was only playing then, Bret, pretending. That was all it amounted to, really." She hurried on, before he could reply; she saw the deep color beginning to stain his face, too, the fire that leapt into his dark eyes.

"You've changed, Bret, not I. I am what I was always, before and after that brief interlude. But you are different. You're glum and serious, cross and moody. You won't try to adapt yourself to my world."

HE did not answer right away. The deep color drained out of his face; the fire left his eyes. "I believe you are right," he spoke at length, slowly. "I'm not the same man. I've lost that courage—the things you thought made me different—different enough to face any situation and conquer it. Different enough to marry the richest woman in the world and make that marriage a success, to maintain my own independence and birthright and self-respect."

"I told you—the other night—before your friends—that I have become. A man who lives on his wife's charity. A man who fritters away his days and nights, accomplishing nothing. A man who can't look himself in the eye and hold up his head. Yes, Connie, I'm different. I have changed. You're right about that."

That grim line etched itself around his mouth; there was a new look in the depths of his dark eyes. Bret Hardisty was becoming his old self again, a man who knew what he thought, knew what was right—and who had never been afraid of anything.

"You're right," he said once more. "I am the one to blame,

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

"This Is My Story"—Told by First Lady

Eleanor Roosevelt gave her country something of a shock five years ago by demonstrating that the President's wife could be a person in her own right and could go on living her own life despite the fact that her home happened to be in the White House.

The country looked on in a daze for a little while, and then settled back and decided that Mrs. Roosevelt was an interesting and a stimulating woman who was worth watching.

If you happened to join in that verdict, you will want to know about Mrs. Roosevelt's new book, "This Is My Story" (Harcourt: $3).

The book is just what you might expect. Mrs. Roosevelt gives away no state secrets and is discretion's own self when it comes to talking about politicians and statecraft; but she is remarkably frank about everything else, and is engagingly and unassumingly candid in speaking of herself.

She says bluntly that she was something of an ugly duckling as a child, and she lets one see that she had a slightly unhappy and rather ill-guided childhood. She confesses that she was unprepared for marriage and says that when she set up housekeeping she had practically none of the housewifely accomplishments.

Her wedding, by the way, was singular. T. R. came down to give the bride away, and ostle the show; bride and groom found themselves deserted right after the ceremony, with every one gathered around the President listening to him tell stories.

Mrs. Roosevelt carries her story down to 1924, and hints at a second volume to follow. I hope it is soon forthcoming; if this book is any criterion, it will be a volume well worth waiting for.

Girl Spotted in Barber Shop May Get Scarlett O'Hara Role in "Gone With the Wind"

HOLLYWOOD—One day a movie director walked into a barber shop and gave the little girl there a great big hand.

She went to work with her files and buffers, and he went on thinking about the things that directors think about. A pretty manicurist is nothing special in the life of a movie-maker. In this town, at least, most manicurists and waitresses are thwarted actresses, looking for a break.

But this girl didn't make any remarks such as, "Some of my customers say I look like Janet Gaynor and some say Loretta Young. But most of 'em say I oughta be in pictures. . . ."

What this girl said was, "Other hand, please."

So the director gave her the other hand, and a look, too. What he saw was downright startling.

This manicurist actually did look like Janet Gaynor, and Loretta Young, with just a dash of Mary Astor. She had auburn hair and a complexion to die with it—light and with a few freckles. She was about five feet four inches tall and weighed 112 pounds—slim but with nice architecture. Her voice was a sort of contralto, throaty, but smooth.

Can This Be Scarlett?

Her name, it turned out, was Arleen Whelan. Also it turns out that Miss Whelan is making her screen debut in the feminine lead of a 20th-Fox picture called "Kidnaped."

And that isn't all. Miss Whelan looks like a fairly good bet for Scarlett O'Hara; maybe a shade too pretty, this is Hollywood, after all. At any rate, David O. Selznick is sufficiently impressed to test her for the part, and in spite of all the rumors you've been hearing, not many actual tests have been made.

She is being taught a southern accent, as well as the Scottish accent which she must use as Jeannie MacDonald in the kidnapping picture. There's evidence of acting ability in the fact that when she talks of her coming test for "Gone With the Wind" her voice immediately goes so'th'n. But in discussing "Kidnaped" she regains all her r's and a few extra ones, until she's talking with a burr.

"It Was Just Luck"

Miss Whelan talks excitedly about the things that are happening to her, but plainly she is not used to being interviewed. Telling about the way she was discovered, she said:

"Well, some people here at the stu-

Wide Shoulders, Thin Waist On Molded Afternoon Frock

BY CAROL DAY

THE waistline of the pretty frock in Pattern 8151 is lifted to just under the bust to meet the pretty roll collar, giving the whole a daintily molded effect. The beltless line at front is both young and flattering, while the half-belt at back gives a snug waist to make it look thin and wasp-like. Short, puffed sleeves emphasize the wide shoulders, make the hip look even slimmer. The skirt flares softly at the hem, though the silhouette is pencil slim. Wear this dress for afternoon parties for dinners in town and look your prettiest. Printed rayon crepe or printed taffeta are two fabrics that would give unusual formality to this dress.

We Who Remember Spring

We who remember spring are safe from grief. We lean to the wind, traverse the daily round. Of winter, knowing sorrow but the brief. Rain on a cherished face. While underground. Our faith, with the immortal epics waits. To hear the whisper on the frosts depart. For hills to choose their colors, birds their mates. The certain resurrection of the heart! We are the few who know that Love must sleep. With seed in the broad earth, absorb the rain. Be blown about the rocks, endure the deep. Shaft of the plow and blossom once again. Into the dogwood's laughter. Love is this thing. We understand... we who remember spring.—Selected.

King Winter's Northern Palace Fortified in Ice

Frosty guardian of King Winter's realm in the north, this towering block-built palace of ice featured the annual sports week in Montreal. These palaces formerly were a yearly landmark in the Canadian metropolis, but in 1911 they were discontinued until now. Weeks of careful construction are required to build them and at the end of the carnival the ramparts are usually torn down in mock assault.

He (or she) arrives when he is supposed to arrive. And he leaves when he should leave—or maybe a little before.

If he is bored he doesn't sit back and let himself go, he stirs things up a bit himself.

You can count on his judgment and tact. He won't insult Mrs. Gray or get Mrs. Black started on religion.

He won't encourage your children to disobey you, or teach them words you have never let them hear give them candy between meals, or correct their grammar.

He will let you know that he thinks the dinner is exactly what he would have ordered.

He doesn't tag along after you when you go into the kitchen to give last minute instructions to the cook, or when you go into the hall to answer the telephone.

If you have to leave him alone for awhile he picks up a magazine and at least makes a pretense of reading it.

Limit Proposal

votes to defeat a motion to limit debate, they denounced that effort as a gag rule.

A vote on the question of applying debate limitation to the controversy was scheduled for Thursday. If two-thirds of those voting approved, debate would be restricted to a one-hour speech for each senator.

But the Southerners say that supporters of the bill will have difficulty in getting even a majority. Supporters of the measure did not deny it.

Many believe the bill would be slowly forgotten. Other legislation is piling up and many senators demand that the latter be given attention. After defeat of the cloture motion, the senate would face a choice between laying the bill aside or continuing the deadlock.

Russell Continues Debate

The measure was still before the Senate Wednesday and Southerners went through the motions of continuing the filibuster. Senator Russell (Dem., Ga.) took up where he left off last night, contending the bill Thursday Wednesday night, contending the bill was backed by the Communist party and that its passage would be followed by an effort to establish a "Negro Soviet" in the South.

In view of Thursday's vote on the cloture motion, Senator Barkley (Dem., Ky.) majority leader, said there would be no night session Wednesday.

Wagner Goaded

Senator McKellar (Dem., Tenn.) followed Senator Russell with a recitation of statistics to show the decrease in the number of lynchings. Only eight were reported in 1937. He read a report which he said was "about the scolded gang executions."

"In this bill," he said, "it is specifically undertaken to exclude gang killings from its terms."

He turned upon Senator Wagner (Dem., N. Y.), sponsor of the bill, and said the New Yorker was not willing to fight for it. Wagner said that if the Tennesseean would yield the floor he was willing to fight for the bill.

McKellar retorted Wagner was willing to fight for it "now that he knows it is beaten." Senator Connally interjected to say that the bill had been before congress three times at the last regular session, at the special session and the present session—without Wagner fighting for it.

A stands for a vitamin. So does butter. Cheese, egg yolk, cod liver oil, halibut liver oil, and milk also are rich in the essential vitamin A. So also are leafy vegetables, carrots, apricots, and prunes.

Youngsters grow sturdy when they eat this first vitamin of the alphabet. But a lack of vitamin A retards growth and makes teacher say Johnny is a dull little boy. Papas and mamas need it, too. They may get night blindness if it isn't in their diet, and their food won't do what it should without these busy A's lending a helping hand.

Eight young carrots, 1 small pineapple, 1/4 cup shelled almonds, 1/2 cup whipped cream, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1/2

Wash lettuce carefully and dry in a clean towel. Mix pineapple and carrots, add lemon juice, mix with mayonnaise and cream, and half the almonds. Arrange lettuce leaves in a bowl, add above mixture and decorate with pieces of almond.

Attractiveness Proof of Pudding

An old favorite in a new form—chocolate marshmallow pudding with flowers that have nut centers. Note the new glassware that looks like thin white china and costs far less.

Chocolate Petal Dessert is just an old smoothie when it comes to pleasing men. Some mothers who diet won't welcome it, but the youngsters will. So begin unwrapping your chocolate.

Chocolate Petal Dessert

(Serves 4)

One and three-quarters cups milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 ounces walnut meats, 8 marshmallows.

Heat milk in top of double boiler. Mix sugar and salt. Slowly add to milk. Beat constantly. Add chocolate, cut in pieces, and continue to beat until dissolved. Cook 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat egg, add to mixture and cook only 1 minute. Remove from heat, cool slightly, then add vanilla, nuts cut in pieces and 6 marshmallows cut in quarters. Pour into serving dishes and garnish with marshmallow flowers. To make flowers, cut the remaining marshmallows crosswise in half and then cut each half almost to the center in 8 sections. Separate petals and place this flower on top of each pudding with some chopped nuts in the center. Cover a plain cottage pudding with Brown Sugar Sauce and it will taste pretty smooth, too.

Brown Sugar Sauce

(Serves 4 to 6)

One cup granulated raw brown sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 1/2 cups water, 2 egg yolks, pinch salt, 2 1/2 tablespoons brandy.

Combine sugar and cornstarch. Slowly add water and stir until well blended. Slowly bring to boil and continue to boil for 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Beat egg yolks. Gradually pour the sugar mixture on the beaten yolks, beating vigorously with a whip. When all is harmony, add the brandy a little at a time. Now bring on your hot cottage pudding. Pretty smooth for the man of the house.

Rice pudding has a bad name for simplicity. But make the smooth creamy type with not an egg present and serve it chilled in a dark china dish with a garnish of gooseberry jam on its snowy bosom and many a man will stoop to conquer.

Creamy Rice Pudding

(Serves 4 generously)

Two tablespoons raw white rice, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 quart whole milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, few drops bitter almond extract.

Combine thoroughly washed raw rice, sugar and salt in large heat-resistant glass casserole. Add the whole milk and mix well. Set in pan of water and bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) for 1 hour. Stir every 15 minutes for first hour. Then add vanilla and almond extract and continue cooking for 2 more hours at same low temperature. Stir twice during the first hour, then leave it in the hands of Providence. Chill and remember the beautiful gooseberry jam.

Rosston Teams Are Beaten by Emmet

Bodeaw Badgers to Play Texarkana Team Friday Night

The Emmet senior girls won by a score of 24 to 10. The defensive play of Emmet's guards, Jones, Crumby and Brown was outstanding.

The Emmet boys won by a score of 24 to 14. B. Reyenga, diminutive forward, led the Emmet scoring with 9 points. Jarvis led the Rosston scoring with 7 points.

The senior girls of Emmet have scored a total of 78 points in the last two games while the Emmet guards have held the opposition, Okolona and Rosston, to a total of 20 points.

Badgers to Texarkana

Terry Supported by Dizzy Dean

Sides With Giant Manager in Feud With New York Writers

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Bill Terry got support in his feud with sports writers from Dizzy Dean.

"I think Terry's article is the finest I've ever read," declared "old Diz" speaking of the New York manager's piece in the Saturday Evening Post. "Understand," he amended under Mrs. Dean's prompting, "I'm not taking a crack at sport writers—and I don't think Terry is either—but I believe that Terry is right in refusing to allow any of his players to talk to a sports writer."

"I believe that sports writers should write the truth, and I believe they try to, but they shouldn't try to run the game."

Sports writers have done a lot for baseball and they've done a lot for me, but they shouldn't try to run the business office and they shouldn't try to carry grudges into their writing, taking what baseball needs, he said is more players like Terry.

"I don't want to talk about contracts," Dean announced when he met reporters. He has been offered a contract calling for $10,000, which he said represented a $15,000 pay cut. Later he was asked if he would sign for $15,000. "No," he shouted.

Asked if $20,000 would be enough, "ole Diz" lapsed into silence.

BOWLING BOUNTY

All but the girls are prizes in the $34,000 sweepstakes, in which 232,656 tenpin bowlers are competing—a world record number of participants for any event. Naomi Anderson, left, and Donna Crowley display some of the awards at the Chicago headquarters of the nation-wide affair. Miss Crowley has an armful of checks, which are awarded each week for six weeks. Miss Anderson's burden of regulation alley footwear and the pyramid of balls in the background represent the other prizes.

Some Fancy Basketball Expected in Tri-County Meet at Prescott

Review of Records of Competitive Teams Is Given—Tournament Saturday to Be in Prescott Gymnasium

PRESCOTT, Ark.—Those teams not competing in football usually substitute basketball for the gridiron sport in the fall. Such teams as Emmet, Laneburg, Bodeaw, Willisville, have already played as many games as the average team does per season.

Willisville High School has played 27 games, won 19, lost 8, and have played eighteen different schools. They have defeated all but four of those teams that have defeated them. They have competed in several district tournaments, going to the finals in three of them. They own impressive victories over such teams as Camden and Texarkana both defeated twice and have defeated Bodeaw, Reader, Rosston, Cale, and Magnolia. They are coached by Herbert Garrett, former Henderson Reddie star, and have averaged 35 points per game. Probable starting lineup will find Green and West at forwards, Simpson at center, Thompson and Silvey at guards.

Another Nevada county team with an enviable record is the Central Consolidated school of Laneburg. They hold victories over Bodeaw, Rosston, Blevins, Cale, Willisville, Emmet. They have won 10 games while losing only 3. They are coached by Henley, former Henderson leader. The probable lineup for the start of each game will be W. Hart and J. Hart as forwards, N. Green at center, C. Messer and G. Messer at the guards. They have a team average of 24 points per game.

Bodeaw is still remembered as the underdog team that in the 1936 state tournament marched through all state competition to the semi-finals. Some of the members of that team are still playing and will appear in the tourney here Saturday. They are coached by H. May and from all indications he has done a remarkable job. The team so far has won 17 games and lost six. They have a per game average of 40 points. In their victory column is the championship of the Buckner invitation tournament played during December. The outstanding players of the team are: J. Butler and L. Cam-

Tentative Grid Schedule

PRESCOTT, Ark.—The 1938 Curley Wolf football schedule at present is in the following steps of formation. Several dates are yet unfilled. But possible dates are pending with Fordyce, Benton, Malvern, Smackover, for appearance here on those open dates. The schedule to date follows:

Sept. 3—Open.

Sept. 16—Amity, here.

Sept. 23—Magnolia, there.

Sept. 30—Open.

Oct. 7—Horatio, there.

Fordyce Will Come Here for 2 Games

Will Clash With Bobcats Friday Afternoon and Night

The Hope High School basketball team will clash with Fordyce in two games here Friday, it was announced by Coach Foy Hammons.

The first game will be played Friday afternoon, and the second Friday night, starting at 7:30 p. m. It will be the first contest of the season without the services of Hugh Reese and Perry Ramsey, star forwards, who graduated at mid-term and left for the University of Arkansas.

The loss of Reese and Ramsey, no doubt, will be felt—but Coach Hammons has two promising players in Furtile and Baker who become eligible with the start of the second semester. Furtile is a forward. He stands six feet, three inches. Baker is a guard and stands five feet, nine inches.

The starting lineup of the Bobcats will be:

Furtile and Bright, forwards; Fulkerson, center; Stone and Baker at guard positions.

Little is known here of the record of the Fordyce basketball team this year. It is believed, however, the Red bugs will be plenty tough for the new combination of the Bobcats in their first game.

Hadley and Andrews Sign Yank Contracts

NEW YORK.—Two little rays of sunshine pierced the blizzard fog of the Yankees headquarters Wednesday when the postman handed in the signed contracts of two Bronx pitchers, Irvy Paul Andrews and Irving (Bump) Hadley.

Neither Hadley nor Andrews is exactly a vital cog in the champions' machinery, but their quick acceptance of terms at least offered a pleasant change. So far the Yanks have salary debates on their hands with Joe DiMaggio, George Selkirk, Lefty Gomez and Tommy Henrich, with several stars yet to be heard from, including Lou Gehrig.

Word that the youthful Henrich had returned to his ancestral contract received a chilly greeting from Yankee officials. "They didn't like it," one of them said, "counting his $20,000 bonus for signing. And he hasn't even played in all the American League parks yet."

Salads Are Amazing to Consume

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

The American salad is much like the American drug store—you can find almost anything you want in it. However, the type of salad made in a bowl and mixed with simple dressing of oil, lemon juice or vinegar and spices seems to be making headway. That doesn't mean that molded salads, meat balls and every other kind of salad are not popular.

Molded Thousand Island Salad
(8 servings)

One-half cup tomato catsup, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 cup finely chopped celery, 1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives, 1 teaspoon minced chives, 1 1/2 cups shredded green lettuce, 1 package salad gelatin, 1 cup boiling water.

Dissolve the salad gelatin in boiling water. Chill until the mixture begins to thicken. With the exception of the shredded lettuce, combine all the other ingredients and mix well. Add there to the slightly thickened gelatin mixture and stir until they are well mixed in. At the last, fold in the shredded lettuce. Turn into mold and chill until firm.

Capitran Lettuce Bowl
(8 servings)

Two heads firm lettuce, 1 small head broccoli, 4 deviled eggs, 3 small tomatoes, 1 small can whole kernel corn, 1/2 cup ripe olives, 1 cup strips of green celery, 1 teaspoon salt.

Shred 1 head of lettuce and arrange in bottom of large wooden salad bowl. Cut the other head into 8 sections. Cook the broccoli in salted water until slightly tender, but decidedly not mushy. To keep it very green, add a little sugar to the boiling water. When cooked, drain and chill broccoli. To arrange the bowl for its dining room appearance, place the chilled head of cooked broccoli in the center of the bowl on top of the shredded lettuce. Then arrange the strips of green celery, stuffed olives, a pin-cushion effect. Stuff the well seasoned tomatoes with the whole kernel corn. Deviled hard cooked eggs cut in half and garnish each half fifth slices of ripe olives. Arrange the stuffed tomatoes, deviled eggs and lettuce sections around the head of broccoli. Serve with a plain French dressing, or this buttermilk dressing which is popular now in Hollywood.

Buttermilk Salad Dressing
(Enough for 8 servings)

One-half cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon white pepper, 1/2 teaspoon paprika, 1 cup thick buttermilk.

If these ingredients sound reasonable to you, then combine them all, swirl in the salad bowl, pour on the dressing and serve.

Who Is the Head of a Family?

A taxpayer, though single, who supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation, is the head of a family and entitled to the same exemption allowed a married person—$2,500. Also he may claim a $400 credit for each dependent, if such person is under 18 years of age or is by reason of advanced age or poor health (mental or physical) incapable of self-support. For example, a widower who supports in one house-

If you happen to be fond of Thousand Island salad dressing, then this molded Thousand Island salad may appeal to you. It does yeoman service at the bridge supper or Sunday night supper, assisted by a few cold cuts.

Roast Is Investment, So Cook Carefully

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

You don't invest a fortune carelessly, nor should you cook a gilt-edged roast without thought to its returns in taste and value. Over the two highly satisfactory ways of roasting meat—the searing method and the constant temperature method—there is a minor controversy.

Searing Method

Wipe meat with damp cloth. Never immerse or allow to stand in water. That draws out the juices. You paid big money for the juices, better use them yourself. Season roast with salt and pepper. Have oven heated to very hot (500 degrees F.). Place roast in open pan with fat side up. Run roast into very hot oven and sear for 20 minutes. Then reduce oven heat to slow (300 degrees F.) and continue roasting of that temperature until done. Constant Temperature Method

Wipe meat with damp cloth. Season with salt and pepper. Place fat side up in open pan. Pre-heat oven to slow (300 degrees F.). Place roast in even and continue roasting at the same temperature until done. For fresh pork, increase the constant temperature to 325 degrees F.

Meat cooking researchers prefer the constant temperature method. About small roasts they have this to say: "A small piece of meat does not make so satisfactory a roast as a large one. The fact remains, however, that many one and two-rib roasts of beef are used. A one-rib roast would be called a thin roast. Searing may improve the appearance of the meat, but a low temperature for the greater part of the cooking is advisable. Putting the roast under the broiler flame at the end of the cooking period is one good way of accomplishing the desired browning. A small roast requires shorter total cooking time than a large one, but more minutes per pound. A moderate temperature with quick browning at the end rather than a high temperature, seems more desirable."

Roast beef always reminds me of a book published in San Francisco in 1914 and now out of print. It contains this nugget of wisdom: "Fine roast beef is this Delamonte Raisin Sauce. Brown butter in a skillet and stir in a teaspoon of flour, forming a smooth paste. Add 1 cup of hot soup stock, stirring constantly. While boiling, put into this a handful of raisins, a handful of blanched almonds, pounded, half a lemon, sliced thin, a few cloves, a pinch of cinnamon, and a little horseradish."

When making chicken salad for sandwiches pour 1 cup of hot chicken broth over mixture. This makes it keep twice as long and helps to season.

Howell Reported to Have Signed Contract

TEMPLE, Ark.—(AP)—The Phoenix Gazette said it had learned that Dixie Howell, former Alabama all-American football player, was appointed grid coach at Arizona State Teachers College at Temple.

Dr. Gray Gammage, president of the college, declined to announce the appointment following a meeting of the Board of Education called for the purpose of selecting a successor to Rudy Lavik, who resigned in December.

The Gazette said Howell would sever his professional baseball connections with the Tulsa Club of the Texas League.

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
